Annual Report
Overview

The adult trial courts in Utah are the district court, the circuit court and the justice of the peace courts. There are seven judicial districts, twelve circuits and approximately 173 justices of the peace courts.

The Judges

Utah is served by twenty-five (29 in 1982-83) district court judges, thirty-three circuit court judges and one hundred fifty-five justices of the peace.

The Caseload

During Fiscal Year 1981-1982, district courts had filings of 37,369 cases. The circuit court had 228,852 new cases filed. The justice of the peace courts had 190,597 cases and 61,198 criminal charges filed.

The Revenues

In the process of transacting court business, the revenues which are collected by the courts in fines, fees and forfeitures are distributed to the cities, counties and to the State of Utah by a formula established by the Legislature.

During FY 1981-82, the District Courts distributed $406,924 to the State of Utah, and $895,157 to the counties.

The Circuit Courts distributed $2,592,113 to the State, $1,022,516 to the counties and $4,829,658 to the cities.

The Justice of the Peace Courts distributed $343,748 to the state in Post Assessment Fees.

The Financing

The Trial Courts are supported by state and local appropriations. In the District Court the state pays the judges' and Trial Court Executives salaries, benefits, training and travel. Counties are responsible for court facilities, most equipment costs, and office related expenses.

In the Circuit Court the same pattern applies, except that funding responsibility is shared between cities, counties and the state. In addition, these local governments and the state share in the costs for court space and clerical support for the courts.

The Future

Caseloads for all trial courts are projected to rise in the next few years. As a co-equal branch of government, the judiciary needs full and fair funding to fulfill its constitutional duties to the State of Utah.

Supreme Court

The Supreme Court is the highest appellate court. The court is composed of a chief justice and four justices. It sits in Salt Lake City at the State Capitol Building.

The Supreme Court reviews District Court decisions, Juvenile Court decisions and decisions from administrative agencies, and may review only constitutional issues raised in an appeal from a Circuit Court or Justice of the Peace Court to the District Court. It may also issue original and remedial writs. The Supreme Court is responsible for procedural rule-making for all courts in Utah.

The Supreme Court is funded totally by the state.

District Courts

The District Courts in Utah are the trial courts of general jurisdiction. There are currently seven judicial districts in Utah which are served by 25 district judges (29 in 1982-1983).

The District Court has original jurisdiction over most civil and criminal cases and has appellate power over Circuit Courts and Justice of the Peace Courts within district boundaries.

The District Courts are funded primarily by the counties in which they sit. The state has assumed responsibility for paying the salaries of judges and some administrative personnel. Court revenues, except for civil filing fees, are remitted to the county.

Juvenile Court

The Juvenile Court has exclusive original jurisdiction over juvenile delinquency and neglect cases. The state is divided into five Juvenile Court districts, served by nine judges and administered by the Office of the Juvenile Court Administrator. The Juvenile Court is completely funded by the state.

Circuit Courts

The Circuit Courts were established in 1978 as courts of limited jurisdiction. Twelve Circuit Courts, served by 33 judges, are distributed among the seven judicial districts. Each Circuit Court has a primary location, and secondary locations, generally the county seats, where court is also held.

The Circuit Courts have concurrent jurisdiction with the District Court over civil cases involving less than $5,000, and concurrent jurisdiction with Justice of the Peace Courts for civil cases involving amounts less than $750. The Circuit Courts have jurisdiction to try criminal charges for misdemeanors and traffic offenses and can hold preliminary hearings to bind accused felons.

Funding for the Circuit Courts is divided between the state and the county (or city in the case of municipal departments). Revenue is shared between the state, counties and city treasurers under the formula contained in the Circuit Court Act.

Justice Courts

Justice of the Peace Courts are established by the Utah Constitution and serve as courts of limited jurisdiction, often held by non-lawyer judges. There are presently 173 Justice Courts in the state with 155 judges.

Justice Courts hear civil matters involving sums less than $750 and have jurisdiction to try Class B and C misdemeanors and traffic offenses. Justice Courts may hold preliminary hearings for accused felons.

Justice of the Peace Courts are funded by the local governmental units for which they sit. Revenues collected by Justice Courts remain with the cities and counties.

ANNUAL REPORT / UTAH COURTS

To the Honorable Members of the Forty-fifth Legislature and the Public

In fiscal year 1981-1982 the adult trial courts have continued efforts to adequately and efficiently fulfill their constitutional roles in administration of justice for the citizens of the State of Utah. As a part of my responsibility as Chief Judge of the Judicial Council, this Annual Report is furnished pursuant to law. Your attention is respectfully directed to the following important areas.

Responding to limited resources, and with caseloads rising in all courts, the cooperative efforts of the judiciary has been essential to provide constitutionally mandated court services. I am pleased to report that such cooperation has been achieved. Two hundred and ninety-four individual assignments and two special six-month assignments of judicial assistance between courts are identified in this report.

A facilities study was begun which, when completed, will inventory physical facilities, establish guidelines and standards for court space renovation and construction, and provide projections for personnel for the ensuing ten years.

Two subjects of special interest to the Judicial Council were identified during the past fiscal year. The first is court delay, and the second, judicial accountability. These subjects have been studied by Judicial Council standing committees, and rules relative to delay reduction have been presented. In all likelihood they will be implemented during the coming fiscal year. Legislation has been proposed to strengthen the position of the Judicial Council and the presiding judges of the various courts to assist in properly responding in these important areas.

This Annual Report is a departure from previous reports in that the information provided reflects the combined efforts of the entire court system at both state and local levels made possible by statistical reporting under the State Judicial Information System. The information is accurate and detailed, and it is our hope and expectation that it will be of great assistance in the proper management of case load and case flow at all levels of the courts.

The past year has been one of progress for the court system even though there have been elevating pressures because of scarce resources and rising demand for services. I commend this Annual Report to you with the promise of continued effort by the adult trial courts to perform their tasks in a responsible and accountable manner.

With Kindest Regards,

J. Robert Bullock
Chief Judge

The Honorable Scott M. Matheson
Governor, State of Utah

The Honorable Gordon R. Hall
Chief Justice, Supreme Court of Utah

The Honorable Members of the Utah State Legislature

The Utah Court Administrator's Act, Section 78-3-21 requires an annual report that reflects the operations of the Adult Courts of the State of Utah. This is the 9th such report since the act was passed in 1973.

This report reflects a major change in the reporting process as a result of the implementation of the State Judicial Information System which became operational on July 1, 1981, and it reflects the first year's operation under that computer/information system. The report for the first time, provides detailed operational information about the adult courts which in the past was provided in limited summary form only. This information provides the courts and all organizations and individuals who have regular needs to use the adult courts, with tools to operate more efficiently and effectively.

The report requires a word of caution because it is a major departure from previous annual reports as it provides new base material and it was not possible to integrate the previous summary information. This is especially true as to matters filed prior to July 1, 1981. This report does not reflect dispositional information from those previous filings.

This 1981-82 Annual Report is submitted along with a continued commitment on the part of the Judiciary of Utah to continued improvements in its operation.

Sincerely,

RICHARD V. PEAY
State Court Administrator

Citizen's Advisory Committee

The Judicial Council and the courts of Utah are sensitive to the concerns of the public regarding the operation of the judicial system. In 1974, the Council established a committee of citizens to advise the Council on public concerns relating to the judiciary. The Committee members meet monthly at the Office of the State Court Administrator to study areas of concern and to undertake special projects to help bridge the gap between the judicial process and the average citizen taxpayer. The committee is composed of fifteen members from a geographical cross-section of the state.

During 1981-1982, the Citizen's Advisory Committee undertook a study project to recommend improvements in the jury system. The members concentrated on the system as seen by an average citizen called to jury duty. They studied materials aimed at acquainting the juror with his role in the judicial process and suggested improvements in juror orientation programs.

Two results of this study project were: 1) the recommendation of expansion of the jury source list from the sole source of the voter's registration rolls to the inclusion of driver's license records, and 2) the creation of a "Judges Scenario" for suggested use by judges in their explanations of court proceedings to jurors. Both were adopted by the Judicial Council.

The Citizen's Advisory Committee is interested in improving the public image of the courts and is currently involved in the development of educational programs regarding the judicial system for the newspapers and for television.

Two members of the committee, Darwin C. Hansen, Bountiful, and Bruhneild Hanni, Salt Lake City, have served continuously since its inception in 1974. Rex Fuhriman, Logan, has been a member since October, 1975. Allen Moll, Salt Lake City, joined the Advisory Committee in October, 1976; Judy Magid, Salt Lake City, was appointed in February, 1978 and Fay Gillette, Tooele, in September, 1978. Harriet Marcus, Salt Lake City, Royden Braithwaite, Cedar City, Merrill Jenkins, Ogden, and Aileen H. Clyde, Springville, all began work with the Committee in November 1978. Stewart M. Hanson, Jr., Salt Lake City, became a committee member in March, 1980, and in June 1982, Don Knowles, Moab, joined the committee.

Standing Committees

The policy making functions of the Judicial Council may require in-depth study of options in specific areas before recommendations for change can be evaluated. The Council has established Standing Committees of judges and laymen who can be called upon when these special needs occur.

Committees have been formed in the following areas;

- Sentencing Guidelines
- State Judicial Information System Review
- Uniform Bail Schedule
- Records Management and Forms
- Rules of Practice
- Benchbook
- Judicial Facilities, Libraries and Equipment
- Legislation
- Public Relations

During July 1, 1981 to June 30, 1982, three Standing Committees were called upon by the Judicial Council.

Rules of Practice Committee

Chairman: LaVar E. Stark, Attorney at Law
Members: Calvin Gould, District Court Judge
Bryant H. Croft, District Court Judge
David E. Roth, Circuit Court Judge
Peter F. Leary, District Court Judge
LeRoy H. Griffiths, Circuit Court Judge
George E. Ballif, District Court Judge
Dean E. Conder, District Court Judge
Staff: Ronald W. Gibson, Deputy Court Administrator

This committee met several times during 1981-1982 and is presently continuing its study of several problems including:

- uniform rules for certifying court interpreters
- uniform commitment forms
- disposition of funds from trustee sales
- implementing proposed Rule 4.1 to minimize court delay

The committee is also surveying local rules of practice from all jurisdictions for areas of conflict and will recommend some rule changes.

Uniform Bail Schedule Committee

Chairman: Cornell M. Jensen, Circuit Court Judge
Members: Raymond S. Uno, Circuit Court Judge
Stanton Taylor, Circuit Court Judge
Floyd Gowans, Circuit Court Judge
Geraldine Christensen, Justice of the Peace
Allen R. Blomquist, Justice of the Peace
Merle Spence, Justice of the Peace
Staff: Ronald W. Gibson, Deputy Court Administrator

The committee met on several occasions to consider needs for adjustments of bail established for particular offenses, as well as to study proposals for the addition of offenses to the schedule.

State Judicial Information System Review Committee:

Chairman: David Dee, District Court Judge
Members: John H. Wahlquist, District Court Judge
Arthur G. Christean, Circuit Court Judge
Warren D. Cole, Justice of the Peace
Staff: Gordon W. Bissegger, Assistant Court Administrator

Judicial input is provided through this committee on the type of information that is, and ought to be, gathered and reflected by the Trial Courts' automated information system. The committee also met to review proposed guidelines on the dissemination of court statistical and financial data.

Court Statistical Information

July 1, 1981 was the beginning date for SJIS tracking. Every case filed from that date is reflected in this report and can be tracked until its disposition in the trial court.

Accurate statistical information on court caseloads is a necessary tool for court management and administration. Because of the number of separate courts in Utah, spread over a large geographical area, current caseload figures have been difficult to obtain in the past. Efforts were first made to gather such information statewide in a District Court program established in 1969 by Justice A. H Ellett as Assignment Justice. In 1973, the Office of the State Court Administrator was established by the Legislature. This office began to gather more complete information on trial courts, including city courts.

During 1981, the State Judicial Information System (SJIS), utilizing a Wang V.S. computer system, went "on-line." The statistical information in this report is derived from this system.

Under the SJIS system, court clerks file reports on District and Circuit Court criminal and civil case filings and dispositions weekly. Probate, traffic and small claims reports are made monthly as are reports from Justice of the Peace Courts. A few courts which use automated data processing systems (Second and Third Districts and Fifth Circuit) supply their data directly to the computer on tape.

Monthly revenue reports are completed by District and Circuit Courts and expenditure reports are made quarterly to reflect local government costs.

Because SJIS does not report pre and post judgment proceedings in each case, the information reported does not reflect the total workload of an individual judge.

Cases vary greatly in complexity and in the amount of time between filing and disposition. In many areas of the state, judges travel a great distance to hear a single case. A judge may need to hear a large number of pre-trial motions and decide many post judgment matters in a single case. A judge may also spend considerable time doing research, overseeing discovery procedures, evaluating pre-sentence reports or refining jury instructions for complex cases. These factors are not reflected in this report. Therefore, comparisons of the individual workloads cannot be made.

Base Year Reporting

The 1981-82 Annual Report of Utah Courts is a departure from reports compiled in previous years. This report serves as the base year report for SJIS. All future reports will build on the statistics gathered during this year.

This report reflects cases filed in the Trial Courts between July 1, 1981 and June 30, 1982. However, the disposition data includes dispositions on cases filed since July 1, 1981 only. Dispositions of cases filed previously to July 1, 1981, which occurred between July 1, 1981 and June 30, 1982 are not included in the report.

Disposition of Cases

To be reported as "disposed" a criminal or civil case must be fully reported as to date and method of disposition. Because some courts did not report disposition method on all of their cases filed and disposed between July 1, 1981 and June 30, 1982, the disposition data discussed in the body of this report and presented in the statistical tables at the end of the report are incomplete.

Therefore, dispositions that could not be classified as to the method are reflected by court on pages 63 and 74. To get a full count of the state and individual court dispositions, data shown in the tables on pages 59 through 62 and 68 through 73 must be added to the unclassified dispositions.

SJIS is primarily a management information system, but it also provides court personnel with information on how many cases are pending in each court and how long they have been pending. In this regard the system is used to help identify court delay problems and promote court delay reduction. Revenue and expense reports and other interim statistical reports provide vital feedback to help with court management. Case filings and disposition information are reported in greater detail and statewide revenue and expenses are available to the courts, the legislature and other governmental agencies.

For example, a total of nineteen state and local government agencies requested and received information on court statistics and finances during fiscal 1981-82.

Judicial Assistance

The State Court Administrator is authorized to recall retired judges and justices to serve temporarily as District Judges and to assign judges within courts and throughout the state, and to reassign cases to judges under the supervision of the Chief Judge and within the policies of the Judicial Council.

These provisions have been widely used since their enactment and have proven to be a valuable program for resolving problems of conflict, disqualification, and calendar management. This flexibility within the system has allowed for full utilization of judicial resources and demonstrates a spirit of cooperation among the judges and a willingness to assist one another when the need arises. Each request for assistance has been graciously accepted by all judges concerned.

All judicial assistance during the past year is not reflected in this report since several exchanges of benches did not require a formal assignment. Also, the judicial assistance listed below reflects only the number of assignments and not the number of days nor number of matters heard. Some assignments included multiple matters such as law and motion calendars, default calendars, multiple trial calendars, or single trials of several days in length.

The Judicial Assistance program aided the Third Circuit Court with one assignment, the Fourth Circuit Court with two assignments, the Fifth Circuit Court with eight assignments and the Sixth Circuit Court with two assignments. The Eighth Circuit received help from two judicial assistance assignments. The Tenth Circuit had nine, the Eleventh had one, and the Twelfth Circuit had two.

The District Court received the most help from temporary assignments. The First District Court had 56 assignments. The Second District had twenty assignments and the Third District had one regular assignment and two special long term assignments of six months each. There were 33 instances of judicial assistance in the Fourth District. The Fifth District, a single judge district, showed the largest number of temporary assignments, 133. The Sixth District received the benefits of 25 assignments while the Seventh District had 33.

The following judges responded to requests of the State Court Administrator's Office and provided many hours of judicial assistance:

Continuing Education Programs

The State Court Administrator's Office coordinates continuing education programs for Utah judges. During the period from July 1, 1981 to June 30, 1982, three Supreme Court Justices attended the Appellate Court Seminar; and seven District Judges, four Circuit Court Judges and one Trial Court Executive attended sessions at the National Judicial College in Reno, Nevada. Three District Judges, one Circuit Judge and one Trial Court Executive attended other educational seminars. In addition, 81 judges attended the 1981 Annual Judicial Conference, 20 judges attended the Southwestern Judicial Conference meeting held in Scottsdale, Arizona, and representatives of the Court Administrator's Office attended the First Annual Court Symposium.

The Legislature imposed a major responsibility for continuing education of justices of the peace upon the Office of the Court Administrator in Section 78-5-27, Utah Code Annotated. Each justice of the peace must attend at least one seminar or training course supervised by the Judicial Council each year.

Two such seminars were held during the period between July 1, 1981 to June 30, 1982. The Legislature requires that justices of the peace who do not fulfill the continuing education requirements be listed as uncertified in this report. Two consecutive years of non attendance may be grounds for removal from office.

Circuit Court Judges held an educational training seminar May 6-8, 1982 in Salt Lake City. Twenty-six circuit court judges and five of their trial court executives met to hear speakers on legal issues of special concern to them including a Utah Highway Safety Program on aspects of the DUI problem.

Circuit court clerks sponsored a training session in May which was held in the Provo City Center. The clerks discussed many of the problems of court procedures and were able to share some solutions. Governor Scott M. Matheson addressed the clerks on the importance of their efforts in the success of the circuit court system.

Administrative Office of the Courts

The 1973 Utah Legislature by statute created the Utah Court Administrator's Act and for the first time the Judicial Branch of Government was provided with the basic tools to administer its own internal affairs. Under the law the Judicial Council chaired by a Chief Judge provides the policy direction for the administration of the Trial Courts. Once a policy has been established it is the responsibility of the State Court Administrator to implement it. The Court Administrator is also responsible for the day to day internal operations of the adult courts.

The Judicial Council meets monthly on a regular scheduled basis. In addition to policy direction the Council has administrative rule making authority which is exercised through its formal resolutions.

The following are some of the specific activities and programs of the Council and the Office of the Court Administrator during the period covered by this report.

1. Judicial Conference. The 1981 Judicial Conference was held September 24, 25, & 26 at Park City, Utah. More than 90% of the Utah State judges were in attendance. The theme of the Conference was "Judicial Agenda for the Eighties."

2. State Judicial Information System. On July 1, 1981, the system went "on line" and for the first time accurate, timely information became available on the activities of the courts of Utah. Another section of this report addresses this system in greater detail.

3. Judicial Plan. On July 3, 1981, the Judicial Council approved a new bi-annual Judicial Plan and Goals for the Utah Judiciary 1981-1983. This is the product of the Judicial Planning Committee.

4. Legislation. The 1982 Budget session of the Utah Legislature approved legislation creating four new District Judgeships. Three were added to the 3rd Judicial District and one to the 7th Judicial District. To assist in equalizing case loads counties in the 4th, 5th, and 7th Districts were realigned.

5. Judicial Facilities. New court facilities were completed and occupied in Emery, Juab, Kane, and Washington Counties. Existing facilities were improved at Circuit Court locations in Clearfield, Sandy, and Roy.

Under the direction of the Utah Building Board, a statewide study of court facilities was begun in the spring of 1982 and when completed in December 1982 it should provide a knowledgeable base for future court facilities through the year 2000.

6. Administrative Office of the Court Location. On November 1, 1981, the Office of the Court Administrator and the Administrative Office of the Juvenile Court moved to a common location at 255 South 3rd East, Salt Lake City. The common location permits shared use of facilities as well as enhanced cooperation and communication between the two offices.

7. Unique Judicial Assistance. Judge Larry R. Keller and Judge Raymond Uno of the Fifth Circuit Court assisted the Third District Court in their heavy caseload during 1982. These two circuit court judges heard the domestic relations calendar of the District Court for six months, from January 1982 to July 1982, in response to a request for assistance from the Presiding Judge of the Third District Court. The other Fifth Circuit Court judges rearranged their schedules to pick up the workload of Judges Keller and Uno at the circuit court. Their efforts resulted in an efficient use of judicial resources for the benefit of the state and especially the Salt Lake County area.

8. Judicial Personnel System. On July 1, 1982, a personnel system serving the Supreme Court, Trial Courts and Juvenile Courts went into operation. All non judicial state personnel are now part of this system.

9. Judicial Compensation. The Executive and Judicial Salary Act became effective during the 1982 Legislative session. The Executive and Judicial Compensation Commission made recommendations on Judges' salaries to the Legislature and those recommendations were adopted without change.

10. Judicial Education. An active judicial and non-judicial education program was conducted during the year. More detailed information is contained elsewhere in this report.

11. Uniform Bail Schedule. An updated revision of the Uniform Bail Schedule for misdemeanor courts was published and distributed during this year.

Supreme Court

Gordon R. Hall, Chief Justice
I. Daniel Stewart, Associate Justice
Richard M. Howe, Associate Justice
Dallin Oaks, Associate Justice
Christine M. Durham, Associate Justice
Geoffrey J. Butler, Supreme Court Clerk

The Utah Supreme Court conducts its business on a monthly schedule. The court generally sits the first and third Mondays of each month for the purpose of hearing and deciding matters presented on a Law and Motion calendar. These are generally matters in which the opposing sides do not contest the facts but do disagree on the proper application of law to those facts. Following the presentation of the arguments of the attorneys, the members of the court hold a conference to decide the matter and to determine whether a minute entry of the decision is sufficient or if the circumstances warrant issuing a written opinion. A justice is assigned to write an opinion if necessary.

In the second full week of each month, the court hears the arguments of counsel on the cases calendared for hearing that month. The court schedules 25 new cases each month. After hearing the arguments of the lawyers and reading the arguments contained in their briefs, the Justices hold conferences and reach a consensus of opinion. One Justice is assigned to write an opinion. The writing assignments are made on a rotation basis to distribute the caseload as equally as possible. Justices may elect to write separate opinions, concurring or dissenting.

During the calendar year 1981, the court heard 700 new cases. The cases concerned the following matters:

|---|---|
| Civil | 398 |
| Criminal | 121 |
| Post Conviction | 9 |
| Original Writs | 29 |
| Administrative Agencies | 69 |
| Interlocutory Appeals | 61 |
| Juvenile Courts | 6 |
| Attorney Discipline and Admission | 5 |
| *Bar Business | 2 |
| | 700 |

*Includes petitions by the Bar to amend Code of Professional Responsibility and Rules of Procedure.

"The Supreme Court is dedicated to the proposition of efficient justice and will continue in its endeavor to cope with the increasing demands of the appellate process."

—Chief Justice Gordon R. Hall

In the calendar year 1981, the Court heard 322 new Law and Motion issues and rendered its decision.

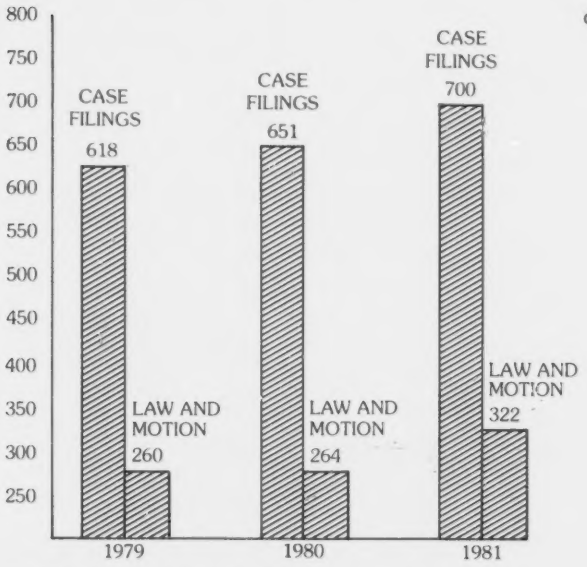
The caseload of the Supreme Court has continued to rise over the last few years, and the cases have increased in complexity, a factor not reflected in these figures.



The court disposed of 577 cases during 1981. Written opinions, some of them quite lengthy, were issued in 288 cases. Two hundred forty-seven of the appeals were dismissed and 42 cases were decided by per curiam decisions.

The Supreme Court has added to its staff and adopted procedures to meet the pressures of its caseload.

Each justice now may have two full-time research attorneys to assist in all the necessary case and precedent finding study that must be done before an opinion can be written.

A central staff, comprised of three experienced members of the bar, performs services for the court in screening the cases calendared for hearing and preparing summaries for the justices. The central staff is available to undertake special projects assigned by the Chief Justice.

The Supreme Court has available to it the Utah State Law Library, and its staff of two librarians, located in the State Capitol.

During 1981 and early 1982, the Supreme Court had only four members due to a vacancy on the court. During this period, district court judges served on the Supreme Court bench. District Judges are also called upon to hear cases and participate in decisions and opinion writing whenever a Supreme Court justice can not hear cases because of illness, conflict of interest or any other reason for recusal.

Eighteen district judges participated in 136 Supreme Court cases from July 1981 to June 30, 1982. The efforts of these judges is noted and appreciated.

District Courts

The District Court system in Utah was established by the State constitution to be the trial court of general jurisdiction. There are seven judicial districts in Utah, each containing more than one county. There are presently twenty-five district judges (twenty-nine in 1982-83) serving these courts. Two districts, the Fifth and the Sixth, have only a single district judge while the district with the heaviest caseload, the Third, has eleven district judges (fourteen in 1982-83).

District judges hear a variety of cases. Civil matters involving large sums of money are adjudicated exclusively in the district court. Criminal trials for felonies, and serious crimes punishable by a year or more in prison, are held only in the district court. Domestic relations cases, divorces, separations, child custody and support payment collection matters are an important part of the district court's workload. Hearings are held to establish mental incompetency for involuntary committment.

The district court also determines probate matters, adoptions, name changes and the settling of estates.

The district court serves as an appellate court for the circuit and justice of the peace courts within the district. An appeal from a justice of the peace court involves a new trial in the district court. A circuit court appeal may be decided upon the trial record and written assertions of error.

Each district judge has a court reporter assigned to him who maintains the verbatim record of the court and prepares transcripts of cases on appeal. In addition, each court is assigned a bailiff and a court clerk.

Each district court also has the administrative assistance of a Trial Court Executive, trained in administration, who is responsible for management of court's calendar; administration of all staff services, personnel, financial, and records administration, liaison with local government, bar associations and media; and management of physical facilities and equipment. Each Trial Court Executive's duties are tailored to meet the unique needs of the district.

Constitutionally, the county clerk is the district court clerk and provides the clerical staff and services needed by the court.

The Third District Court employs a Mental Health Commissioner whose responsibilities include conducting hearings to determine competency.

Types of Crimes Heard in District Court
1981 - 1982 Filings

Typical District Court Caseload

The judge in a single judge district court will hear all types of cases. Multi-judge districts may have each judge scheduling his own mixture of cases or have a master calendar system whereby each judge will hear one type of case exclusively, i.e. criminal cases, under a regular rotation system. A typical district court caseload is composed of 37.1% civil cases, 41.6% domestic relations cases, 10.2% probate, 10.4% criminal and .7% appeals.

The district courts in Utah had new filings of 37,369 cases during 1981-1982. There were 14,131 civil cases, 15,532 domestic relations cases, 3,828 probate matters and 3.878 criminal cases.

Criminal filings in the District Court are up 9.8%.

Of the cases filed that year, 10,589 were disposed of during the year. This number includes 2,671 civil cases, 2,498 criminal cases, and 5,420 domestic relations cases.

The district court disposed of cases involving 2694 criminal defendants in the reporting year. For 43% of these defendants, it took one month or less between the filing of the charge in District Court, (bind-over from Circuit Court) and the court's disposition of that charge. Sixty-five per cent of the defendants were processed within two months or less and seventy-eight and one half per cent of criminal defendants had their cases disposed of within three months of the filing of charges.

Caseload Projections

The court facilities study begun during the summer of 1982 developed projections for the next eighteen years. This information is useful in planning for the courtroom space needs of the future and for planning the development of other supporting facilities, including additional judges and support personnel.

The projected growth of the district court in the next five years is as follows:

Caseload Projections

| | 82-83 | 83-84 | 84-85 | 85-86 | 86-87 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| First District | 1,772 | 1,893 | 1,998 | 2,067 | 2,173 |

Circuit Courts

The Circuit Court system was created by statute in 1978, and is well established throughout the state. It is a court of record and court proceedings are recorded mechanically and transcriptions provided. A circuit court judge must be an attorney and stands for election every six years.

The jurisdiction of the circuit court is shared with the justice of the peace courts and also the district courts. In civil matters, the amount asked for in the complaint determines jurisdiction. The district court has the power to hear cases involving any sum. The justice of the peace court can hear cases involving $750 or less. The circuit courts may try any civil case which has a claim under $5,000. Small claims division are maintained in circuit courts for matters involving less than $400.

The criminal jurisdiction of the circuit courts encompasses all misdemeanors. Traffic offenses are also within the circuit courts' jurisdiction. The circuit court can also hear the preliminary hearings for felony cases and may bind the defendant over for trial in the district court.

The circuit court is a unique blend of city, county and state resources. The state provides the salary of the judges, some administrative personnel and pays for some court expenses. Local government, city and county, support other expenses. Cities where the court always sits, primary locations, have a different financial responsibility to the circuit court than municipalities where the circuit court may meet periodically.

The fines, fees and forfeitures of this court are also divided between state and local government units.

Circuit courts vary greatly throughout the twelve circuits. Some are single judge courts, while the largest circuit, the Fifth, has a total of eleven judges. Four trial court executives provide assistance for seven circuits, while other smaller circuits receive administrative assistance from the district court trial court executive.

Circuit Court Caseload
1981 - 1982

A typical circuit court workload is divided into 26% civil cases and 74% criminal cases. Traffic offenses account for 80% of the criminal case load while small claims cases are 48% of the civil caseload. There were 228,852 cases filed in the circuit court in 1981-1982.

Civil and Criminal Filings (non Traffic)

A total of 30,624 civil cases (not including small claims cases) were filed in the state's circuit courts during 1981-82. Of these 15,010 were disposed of. There were 9,346 defaults entered by the judge. Trials were held for 234 of the civil cases filed during the reporting year.

There were 141,278 traffic cases handled by the circuit court during this period reflecting 492,401 separate charges. This is an increase of 42,157 charges from those reported in 1980-81.

Traffic Charges Filed in Circuit Courts

A majority of criminal cases are disposed of by a guilty plea or bail forfeiture. The circuit courts statewide had 33,989 new filings of criminal cases reflecting 34,040 charges. These new charges were disposed of in the following manner:

Disposition of Criminal Charges Filed

|---|---|
| 13,736 | bail forfeitures / guilty pleas |
| 6,401 | dismissed by the court |
| 501 | dismissed by the prosecutor |
| 324 | acquitted after trial |
| 1,159 | convicted after trial |
| 4,697 | bound over |

The rest of the charges were disposed of in a variety of ways, transferred, judgment suspended while awaiting probation reports, etc.

Criminal Charge Disposition

*Includes extraditions, transferrals, judgments stayed until probation reports completed.

The circuit court disposed of the cases of 24,372 criminal defendants in 1981-1982 from the cases filed after July 1, 1981. The majority of defendants (61.4%) were processed within one month of the filing of the charges with the court. It took three months or less to process 88.9% of the criminal defendants in the cases tracked in S.J.I.S.

It took 3 months or less to process 88.9% of the criminal defendants in the cases tracked by SJIS.

Justice of the Peace Courts

Justice of the Peace courts, created by the Utah Constitution, constitute a part of the Utah judicial system. The Legislature possesses the power to determine the number of justices of the peace to be elected and fix by law their powers, duties, and compensation.

A justice of the peace is elected by the residents within the county in which the court is created, or appointed by city officials. He need not be an attorney. Some justices of the peace serve in full-time positions, while most serve on a part-time basis. Some justices of the peace hear cases daily, others may have limited court hours each week, and some are available on an appointment basis.

The State of Utah provides training and a certification program for each justice. A model record keeping system, including statistical and financial information and a uniform bail schedule is provided. A Manual for Justices of the Peace serves as a benchbook to aid in judicial duties.

Justices of the peace report their caseload to the Office of the State Court Administrator on a monthly basis, in a summary report. These reports are transcribed into SJIS and accurate caseload figures statewide are now available. Since the cases are reported in a summary manner, the dispositions reflected in this report are the total dispositions of the period July 1, 1981 to June 30, 1982.

Salt Lake County has established the position of Justice of the Peace Administrator, who serves in the same manner as a trial court executive to help manage the Salt Lake County justice of the peace court caseload. The State Court Administrator provides additional administrative assistance for justice of the peace courts. The Utah Association of Justices of the Peace is a voluntary organization which assists justice of the peace courts in carrying out their duties.

Continuing education programs, including a basic course for new judges and advanced courses for the experienced judge, are conducted twice a year under the supervision of the Court Administrator. Other education opportunities are available throughout the year. The legislature requires justices of the peace to attend one qualifying seminar each calendar year, to retain certification. Two consecutive years of lack of certification may be cause for removal from office.

Each justice of the peace court has a unique caseload, tied to the needs of the community. A composite picture of a typical justice of the peace caseload statewide shows that 22% of the workload consists of criminal charges and 2% civil cases. 76% of the caseload involves traffic charges.

The justice of the peace has jurisdiction to try Class B and Class C misdemeanors. There were 61,198 of these charges filed in 1981-1982. There were 216,593 traffic charges filed. While the majority of these criminal charges (39,703) were disposed of by guilty pleas or bail forfeitures, 5,542 criminal non jury trials were held and 75 criminal jury trials were conducted. There were 356 hearings held in the justice of the peace courts, for charges beyond their criminal jurisdiction. These defendants were either bound over to another court or dismissed if insufficient evidence was presented to uphold the charge.

The justice of the peace courts have a civil jurisdiction for amounts under $750 with a small claims division for claims under $400. There were 4,660 civil cases reported as filed in 1981-1982 and 3,931 civil dispositions were reported. Most cases were settled or dismissed, 2,175, while 687 went to trial.

Justice of the peace courts are supported financially by the local governmental unit for which they serve. The fines, fees and forfeitures, are remitted to that unit. These revenues amounted to $7,091,242 statewide in the 1981-1982 reporting year. Post Assessment fees of $343,748 were collected for the state.

Court Finances

As demands on the judicial system grow with statutory changes in court structure, population growth, and social conditions, the costs of meeting the courts' workload continue to rise. Costs of maintaining a court include a myriad of support services in addition to the judges' salaries. Salaries of the clerks who receive pleadings and complaints and help process cases through the court, administrative help to organize and schedule the judges' time and supervise clerical duties, bailiffs for courtroom security, and clerks in the courtroom to swear in witnesses and handle more of the paperwork constitute a portion of these costs. In addition, witnesses and jurors in criminal cases receive reimbursement for their travel expenses and time.

Court space needs include courtrooms, judges chambers, witness and jury rooms and office space for clerical personnel. Access to a law library for research is necessary as are all the cost of of utilities such as lights, heat, telephone and stationery supplies. Large volume metropolitan courts may also need data processing equipment to keep track of the number of cases and coordinate court personnel and court resources.

Courts collect revenues in fines, fees and forfeitures. Revenues produced by the courts are divided between governmental units. Costs of the judiciary in Utah are split between levels of government, i.e., state, county and city.

Specifically, cost and revenues are divided in this manner:

SUPREME COURT

Third Judicial District

Eleven district judges (fourteen in 1982-83), twelve circuit judges and twenty-three justices of the peace serve this three-county district. Salt Lake County has a population of 619,066 in an area of 764 square miles. Summit County has a population of 10,198 in an area of 1,849 square miles and Tooele County has 26,033 people living in an area of 6,923 square miles. Each county is unique. Salt Lake is an urban area, the state capital and seat of state government. Summit County is a mountainous area with several resort centers contained within it. Tooele County stretches to the Nevada border and contains federal installations such as Dugway Proving Grounds and Tooele Army Depot.

The Third District Court has experienced a major growth in case filings in the last few years as the population of the Salt Lake Valley has increased. The Legislature recognized this case "explosion" and authorized the establishment of three additional judgeships in this district to begin July 1, 1982. These new judges will help to relieve the heavy court backlog reflected in this report.

The Fifth Circuit Court's Murray Department, has moved into a renovated school which now houses all the city offices and the court. These offices were previously located in a rented building. Not only does the circuit court have more space as a result of the move, but other local government agencies, such as prosecutors and police, are readily available.

The Sandy department of the Fifth Circuit Court is occupying newly renovated space, which has improved the appearance of the facility and added clerical space and badly needed storage areas.

In the Third District Court, during the period from July 1, 1981 to June 30, 1982, 18,015 civil cases were filed and 2,965 of these civil cases were disposed of. There were 1,873 criminal cases filed and 1,036 of these cases were closed. There were 1,791 probate cases opened and 1,750 probates were heard.

The Fifth Circuit Court, during this same period had 67,153 cases filed. Of these cases, 15,761 criminal offenses were filed, 18,562 civil cases, 12,107 small claims, and 20,237 traffic citations reflecting 337,753 traffic charges. The court disposed of 8,879 civil cases, 8,249 criminal, and 9,198 small claims. There were 345,183 traffic charges disposed by the circuit court in this period. The court also held 12,235 hearings.

Third District Court
Civil Case Dispositions

*This disposition figure represents disposition of cases filed after July 1, 1981 only. It does not reflect the closed cases filed earlier and does not show the progress made on the case backlog during 1981-1982. Three new district judges have been added to deal with the Third District case backlog.

The Fifth Circuit Court's Murray Department has moved into improved space.

The Sixth Circuit Court received new filings of 215 civil cases and completed 74 of these cases. There were 411 criminal offenses filed while 257 cases were closed. There were 371 small claims cases initiated while 244 small claims were completed. The court handled 2,215 traffic charges and held 132 hearings.

Fourth Judicial District

Four district judges, five circuit judges and thirty-one justices of the peace serve this six-county district. Duchesne County has a population of 12,565 in an area of 3,255 square miles. Uintah County has a population of 20,506 in an area of 4,487 square miles and Daggett County has 769 people living in an area of 682 square miles. Utah County has a population of 218,106 in a 2,014 square mile area. There are 5,530 people living in the 3,412 square mile area of Juab County. Wasatch County has a population of 8,523 persons in a 1,191 square mile area. This six county area encompasses the energy rich areas of eastern Utah, the Uintah and Ouray Indian Reservation, Uintah Mountain Primitive Areas and the rapidly growing Provo area, home of Brigham Young University.

In 1982, the Legislature changed the composition of this district. Millard County cases were moved from Fifth District Court's jurisdiction into the jurisdiction of the Fourth District, relieving the heavy caseload of the single district judge of the Fifth District.

The Eighth Circuit Court, in Orem, is in the planning process of a court facility. A new building, dedicated to court use is to be built under a lease/purchase option. The court is currently housed in a municipal facility which contains all city offices. The new building, planned for occupancy in 1983, will provide an expanded courtroom and improved and expanded space for court support needs.

The Fourth District Court and the Eighth Circuit Court are sharing new facilities in Nephi. A new county facility providing court space and housing other city agencies opened during 1982 in Nephi and has improved the court facilities.

In the Fourth District Court, during the period from July 1, 1981 to June 30, 1982, 5,042 civil cases were filed and 1,263 civil cases were disposed of. There were 516 criminal cases filed and 303 of these cases were closed. There were 623 new probate cases opened and 842 probates were heard.

The Seventh Circuit Court, during this same period had 4,803 cases filed. Of these cases, 1,199 criminal offenses were filed, 681 civil cases were filed, 561 small claims and 2,376 traffic citations. The court disposed of 1,414 cases and of these 271 were civil, 877 criminal, and 266 small claims. In addition, 2,320 traffic charges were disposed of. The court held 1,564 hearings.

Civil Case Filings Continue to Rise in the Fourth District, Topping the 5000 Case Level in 1981-1982

The Eighth Circuit Court received new filings of 3,603 civil cases and completed 1,721 of these civil cases. There were 4,500 criminal actions filed while 2,893 of these cases were closed. There were 4,426 small claims cases initiated while 2,338 were completed. The court had 52,399 traffic charges filed and 33,386 charges disposed of. The court held 13,268 hearings.

The information on the caseloads of the Justice of the Peace courts in this area is incomplete because Judge Manual Ortega and Judge Wallace Peterson did not submit monthly statistical reports. Judge John B. Gale, Judge J. D. Christensen, Judge Blair W. Herbert, Judge Priscilla Thomas, and Judge Michael Drussel filed partial reports.

The justice of the peace courts in the Fourth District reported 1,034 civil cases including small claims. The justices of the peace handled 39,442 traffic charges and 10,773 misdemeanor charges. In addition, 100 preliminary hearings were conducted.

The traffic and misdemeanor charges were disposed of by 1,153 non-jury trials and 81 jury trials. Guilty pleas or bail forfeitures were made for 35,343 of the traffic and criminal charges.
